

Nest Home

Nest Home is the landing page for every Nest. It consists of a space to write a protocol, and a space for general comments.

Upon creating a new, blank nest, the protocol provides a recommended template to begin constructing your review. Feel free to use that to guide you, or delete its contents and start from scratch. Simply click the Edit button anytime, this space has the basic functions of any word document, and any edits are automatically saved.

Comments on the right hand side allow you to make general notes that are timestamped, and/or communicate with specific collaborators in the nest. Learn about adding collaborators here. To direct a comment at a specific user, use the @ icon and they should appear in the dropdown options. If not, make sure you have invited and they have accepted your invitation to the nest.

The screenshot displays the Nest Home interface. On the left is a sidebar with navigation options: Nest Home (Activity, Settings), Literature Search (Other Sources, Duplicate Review, Search Exploration), Abstract Screening (Adjudicate Screening), Full Text Screening (Adjudicate Screening), Tagging, Study Inspector, and Synthesis (Dashboard Editor, Abstract Editor, Export). The main area is titled 'Home: test' and contains a 'Protocol' editor. The protocol template includes sections for Study Design, Research Question, Background, Search Strategy, Methods, Screening Strategy, Population, Interventions/Comparators, and Outcomes, Data Extraction and Reporting, Critical Appraisal, and Limitations. On the right is a 'Notes' sidebar with tabs for Notes, Your Mentions, and All Mentions. The Notes section contains a text area and a user selection dropdown menu with options: Karl Holub, Jade Thurnham, and Test Jade Thurnham. The top of the interface shows the (NESTED) KNOWLEDGE logo, navigation links (About, Docs, Support, AutoLit), and a user profile (Jade).

Under Nest Home, you can explore Activity for user activity, and toggle Settings.
